Beijing, Xi'an, Lhasa, Tsedang, Zhongdian, Lijiang, Dali, Kunming, Shanghai (19 days)

A combination of China classics, Tibet and Shangri-la, which includes amazing diverse places.

The program from Zhongdian to Kunming will take you through spectacular mountainous scenery, lead you into the lives of Tibetan, Naxi, Bai and a variety of other ethnic groups, and give you a glimpse of the botanical glories of Yunnan.

“The Lost Horizon” is the story of four Americans who survived a plane crash in the Himalayas, only to discover the reclusive land. It was British writer James Hilton's novel “The Lost Horizon” that sparked a legend and brought fame to an unknown and almost untouched place called Shangri-La. “Shangri-La” is a Tibetan word meaning “land of sacredness and peace”. Finally, in Sept. 1997, the government of Yunnan province declared that Shangri-La had been discovered in Zhongdian, Diqing, a prefecture in Yunnan province. It now may be the last virgin land where one can observe cultures whose layers go back for thousands of years into the past.
